

James Chew is the owner of Condo Management of Columbus. Jim founded the company in 1990. The company has grown from one property to over 50, specializing only in Condominiums.

He created a free workshop for condominium association board members in the Central Ohio area. The programs included information about board member responsibilities, problem-solving strategies, maintenance, finances, vendor presentations, and condo laws. Over 1300 board members attended Jim's workshops over several decades.

Jim's career included a 15-year association with Genuine Parts Company (NAPA) as the Central Division director of IT. Prior to joining NAPA he was a Certified Professional Land Surveyor. Jim is a life-long Buckeye, having attended The Ohio State University.

He has a lifetime record of volunteerism including volunteer investigator for "Six on your Side" where he helped television viewers with consumer issues, Central Ohio Radio Reading Service enriching lives by reading printed news and information to people who are blind, have low vision, or other conditions that prevent reading, Victims of Crime, Friends of the Homeless, delivering blood for Red Cross, and most recently the Crisis Text line, helping people in crisis working the 2am to 4 am shift on weekends.

Jim has been a member of CAI since 2004.
